

Continuation of the

History of the Plot,

CONTAINING

A faithful Account of what occurred since that Intituled, A true Relation of the horrid Conspiracy against the Life of the King. Written by the same Hand. With an exact List of all those that were then Committed.

To which are added,

All those Committed since to the Tower, Fleet, Newgate, Gate-House, King's-Bench, Marshalsea, and in the Custody of Messenger's, being in all 323.

In another Letter to a Friend in Oxford.

SIR,

Yours dated the First instant at Oxford I received, by which I understand that mine came to your hands; which contained in substance, A true Relation of the most horrid Conspiracy against the Life of the King, with an exact List of such of the Conspirators as were then Committed. I likewise promised to acquaint you with what else that should occur of this Nature, and there being many things of moment happened since, and other Matters transacted before now come to light, this will exactly inform you of the whole, to the end you may not be ignorant of the Barbarity and Inhumanity of this Conspiracy, which was contrived not only against the Life of the best of Kings, but also against the Protestant Religion, they designing to extirpate the same out of this Kingdom, and to introduce Popery. But this was happily Detected by the Generosity of Capt. Pendergref, who no sooner knew of it, but did immediately communicate it to the Right Honourable the Earl of Portland, and tho' he had a Promise not to be made use of

as an Evidence, yet he has since very voluntarily given his Evidence, without being compelled to it. I am also informed, that upon his Discovery he had Promise of Pardon for one more, besides himself, that he should bring in, which some thinks to be Captain Porter, whom he prevailed upon to do abundance of Service to the Publick. Much may be said indeed of Monsieur de la Rue, who made a Discovery very early, and designed to have done it sooner, if things had been ripe. Here are since several new Evidences, which I shall have occasion to mention hereafter, &c.

We find now that the Lancashire Plot, if it had been strictly managed, and enquired into, was a real Conspiracy, though those concerned found ways to come off, as it appears by several Circumstances, and it is said, that Gentlemen in that Country had made provisions of Arms, &c. to further their design: It may be also said, that this was not the first Conspiracy to Assassinate the King here in England, if we may believe the Confession of Capt. Whinner, the famous High-way man, who was Executed,

(A)
Continuation of the

History of the Plot,

CONTAINING

A faithful Account of what occurred since that Intituled, A true Relation of the horrid Conspiracy against the Life of the King. Written by the same Hand. With an exact List of all those that were then Committed.

To which are added,

All those Committed since to the Tower, Fleet, Newgate, Gate-House, King's-Bench, Marshalsea, and in the Custody of Messengers, being in all 323.

In another Letter to a Friend in Oxford.

SIR,

Yours dated the First instant at Oxford I received, by which I understand that mine came to your hands, which contained in substance, A true Relation of the most horrid Conspiracy against the Life of the King, with an exact List of such of the Conspirators as were then Committed. I likewise promised to acquaint you with what else that should occur of this Nature, and there being many things of moment happened since, and other Matters transacted before, now come to light, this will exactly inform you of the whole, to the end you may not be ignorant of the Barbarity and Inhumanity of this Conspiracy, which was contrived not only against the Life of the best of Kings, but also against the Protestant Religion, they designing to extirpate the same out of this Kingdom, and to introduce Popery, but this was happily Detected by the Generosity of Capt. Pendergast, who no sooner knew of it, but did immediately communicate it to the Right Honourable the Earl of Portland; and tho' he had a Promise not to be made use of

as an Evidence, yet he has since very voluntarily given his Evidence, without being compelled to it. I am also informed, that upon his Discovery he had Promise of Pardon for one more, besides himself, that he should bring in, which some thinks to be Captain Porter, whom he prevailed upon to do abundance of Service to the Publick. Much may be said indeed of Monsieur de la Rue, who made a Discovery very early, and designed to have done it sooner, if things had been ripe. Here are since several new Evidences, which I shall have occasion to mention hereafter.

We find now that the Lincolnshire Plot, if it had been strictly managed, and enquired into, was a real Conspiracy, though those concerned found ways to come off, as it appears by several Circumstances, and it is said, that Gentlemen in that Country had made provisions of Arms, &c. to further their design: It may be also said, that this was not the first Conspiracy to Assassinate the King here in England, if we may believe the Confession of Capt. Whorner, the famous High-way man, who was Executed, ted, for upon his Examination, he said, That he, and several others, had resolved to do it, and he offered to come to Particulars as to the Design then, but that his Breath was stop'd a little of the soonest. All those that have been hitherto Executed, labour to excuse the French King, and King James, from having any knowledge of it, nor the Body of the Roman Catholics; but Monsieur Granwall, who was a Knight of Malta, and was Executed in Flanders, for designing to kill his Majesty, had more generosity in him, for in his Confession, he says positively, That both King James, and his Queen, knew of his Conspiracy, and that he was with them in the Cloister, Coll. Parker being present, where they promised him great Rewards, and the late Queen in particular said, that she would take care of him; and on the other hand, the French Ministers supplied him and Monsieur Roberti with money, not without the knowledge of the King their Master, as you may easily judge, what ever the Disaffected Party may say, or pretend, besides all Christian Princes and States are convinced, that the Scheme of the Plot to take away the Life of his Majesty was contrived at Versailles, and, in a word, that Lewis the 14th. designed to have made use of King James, as a proper Instrument to Conquer England, and the Dominions thereunto belonging, and by that means to make them Tributaries to him; but he is come short of his ambitious Expectation, as you shall see before I conclude.

Since the Execution of Sir William Perkins and Sir J. Fenwick, two of the Absolving Ministers charge with them Absolution are taken and Committed to Newgate, viz. Mr. Cook and M. Sna, but Collier, the other Non-Jurant Minister that was with them, is fled. Cook is upon Record for Forgery, and the others are not of a much better Reputation; and their impudent Behaviour hath occasioned the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the rest of the Bishops, to publish a Declaration of their Sense concerning the irregularity and scandalous proceedings of those pretended Clergymen, it being contrary to the Rubrick of the Church of England, as by Law established.

On Tuesday the 21st. ult. in the morning came on the Trial of Brigadier Ambrose Rockwood, at the Kings-Bench Bar; the Evidence against him were Capt. Porter and Mr. Harris, the fact was proved very clear against him, so that he was Convicted, though he had Counsel allowed him, according to the late Act of Parliament, to regulate Trials in Case of High Treason, Sir Bartholomew Shag was one of the Oracles that Argued for the Prisoner, and took upon him to bespatter Capt. Porter with several Reflections, which he could not prove, which did not become a Gentleman, thinking by that means to invalidate his Evidence. This Rockwood is of an ancient Family in Suffolk, but it is no news for that Name to be concerned in hellish black Conspiracies, for I find by History that one of his Predecessors was Executed, for being a Contriver of the Gun-Powder Treason Plot. I might have said as much of Charmick, for I find that one of his Name, with 13 others, were concerned in a Plot of this nature, against the Life of that famous Princess, Queen Elizabeth, of ever blessed Memory, for which he, and they, were Executed;

On Tuesday the 21st. ult. in the Afternoon came on the Trial of Mr. Charles Cranburn at Westminster; the Evidence against him were Captain Porter and Pendergrast, and after he, and his Counsel, had said all that they had to say, they Jury brought him in Guilty. He behaved himself very impudently, both at his Examination and his Trial, in several matters which I might instance, if it were proper.

The next day being Wednesday the 22d. Major Bonick came to his Trial; the Judges and Counsel were the same as the day before, and the Evidence were Mr. Harris, Mr. Bertram and Mr. Porter, and after a fair Trial he was found Guilty. He behaved himself decently, and appears to be a worthy Gentleman, of an ancient Family. The same Afternoon they all three received Sentences of Death, in Cases of High Treason, and were remanded to Newgate. Captain Knightly was to have been Tried with them, but that he was indicted by a wrong Christian Name, viz.

Christopher,

Christopher, whereas it ought to have been Alexander, however since, the Grand Jury have again found the Bill against him by the right Name, upon the same Evidence.

It may not be amiss to tell you how Mr. Harris came to be an Evidence, and likewise to acquaint you with some particular passages in his Depositions. He was a Brigadier of King James's Guard, and being sent hither before the Discovery of the Plot, and finding himself incerted in the Proclamation, found that he, by discovering any of the Conspirators therein mentioned, should have his own pardon and 1000 l. Reward; This induced him to surrender, and to discover Rookwood and Bernardi, which accordingly he did, and so by that means he was under no Confinement; and indeed it may be truly said of him, That he has laid this Plot more home to King James, than any thing that has been said before on that Subject, as you may see here; for he Deposed, That he was on the 14th of January, N.S. at St. Germain's En lay; And after Dinner, King James told him (Col. Parker being present) That he had a kindness for him, therefore he must go for England, where he should receive Orders and Subsistence from Sir George Barclay; to whom said King James, I have given my Commission, which he is to Execute, and having told him how to find Sir Geo. he took his leave, and Mr. Cary, Secretary to the late Queen, gave him 10 Bills to defray his Expences, Col. Parker was then with him, he came to Calais, where he was 8 or 9 Days wind-bound; but all that while he was treated by the French President, after that he came to London, where he met the Conspirators, and was allowed 3 s. per Day Subsistence, without a Horse, and 6 when he had a Horse, which was paid him by one Holmes, by Order of Sir George; but when he understood he was to have been one of the Assassins, he did not approve of it, neither did Brigadier Rookwood; but Major Lovick, when the Matter was debated said, That he would obey Orders, which word in a great measure was the occasion of his Condemnation, King James ordered him to go by the name of Jenkins, and told him of the borrowed names the others were to go by; Yet for all this the Zealors for King James's Interest, will not believe that he knew of it, nothing can be plainer to all unbiassed Men; and as for the French King let him pretend whatever he pleases, it is certain, that he was at the Root of this Bloody Tragedy; but it may be properly said of him, That he is the Root of all Evil, and the disturber of all Christendom, his Ambition being without limit or bounds; for he is at War with most Christian Princes, and has made an Alliance with the Grand Turk, by which he has promised to furnish him with Experienced Officers, and Engineers; 800000 Crowns per Annum Pension, as we may properly call it, to the Grand Seignior; besides what his Ambassador gives under hand to the Prime Vizier, the Divan, the Sultana, &c. He also furnishes them with Ships of War, and supplies the Emperor of Morocco with Officers, and Engineers, to be employed in the Siege of Centa; and does abundance of other things not fit for a Christian Prince; he has for several Years past promised the Grand Seignior to penetrate the Empire, even to the banks of the Danube, with an Army of 100000 Men, under the Command of the Dauphin; and if he had been able to perform what he promised, doubtless he would have put on the Turkish Helmet; and perhaps take for a Wife one of Mahomet's Daughters, which would have more strictly knitted their Alliance. But 'tis no new thing for France to make an Alliance with the Turks, as you may see in Rassal's Statutes made in the 15th year of Henry the 8th. chap. 12th. where you will find an Act of Parliament, Intituled an Act for the Remission of the same, in the preamble, of which among other things, we read the following memorable Relation touching Francis the first, the then French King.

And notwithstanding that His Majesty of his Inestimable Goodness, hath of long time like a Charitable Loving and most virtuous Prince, tendered, trusted, loved and favoured Francis now the French King, and shewed unto him divers and sundry inestimable Gratuities and Amities, as well by redeeming him and his Children out of Captivity and Thralldom, as also relieving him of his Poverty by divers and sundry Presents and Lones of notable Sums of Money to him made, trusting thereby to have preserved and continued Love, Amity, Peace and Concord between the Regions of England and France.

Yet the same French King, nothing regarding his Honour, Oath, Truth, Promise and Fidelity made unto His Majesty, hath not only most ungratefully, and wrongfully withdrawn from his said Majesty the due rightful and accustomed Pension always heretofore used (as of right) to be paid to His Majesty and this Realm, out of the Realm of France; but also hath inferred and done unto His Majesty and his loving Subjects, many other right, great and intollerable Displeasures, Wrongs, Injuries and Damages, and for maintenance thereof, hath confederated himself with the great Turk, common Enemy to all Christendom, pretending thereby to satisfy his own Ambitious Mind, and tending to put Universal trouble and Division in all the Monarchy of Christendom, and subdue the Realm of England to his Power and Subjection.

I find also that this Francis the French King invited the Grand Seignior to invade Italy, which accordingly he did, with his Fleet Ravaged all the Coast, and carried 40000 Christians, Men Women and Children into Slavery, besides other Destructions as you may see at large in the Turkish History in the Reign of Soltman the Magnificent. 'Tis true these things I have inserted to inform the World of the unchristian-like Actions of France, both now and at all times, though it be a Digression from the intent of this Paper, but it runs parallel to the present time. Now if all these matters be well considered, what might the Adherents of the late King James expect from Lewis the French, if he had conquered England, nothing but Slavery: for in reason they could not expect a better Treatment from him, than his own Subjects, who are the greatest Slaves in the World to him, no, they cannot say that any thing is their own, his Government is so Arbitrary.

Now it will not be amiss to return to the matter in hand, and tell you some what more of the present Conspiracy. On Tuesday the 28th. of April, the Grand Jury found the Bill of High Treason against Peter Cook, Esq; Son to Sir Miles Cook. On Thursday the 30th. of April, Capt. Knightly (against whom a Bill of High Treason was found before) was Arraigned at the King's Bench Bar, but being very Sick, the Court appointed his Trial not to come on till the 20th. of this Instant May.

On Wednesday the 29th. of April, Brigadeer Rookwood, Major Lowick, and Mr. Cranburn were conveyed in a Sledge to Tyburn, where they were Executed as in Cases of High Treason; the first dyed Roman Catholic, and the Latter a Protestant, they owned every thing that was sworn against them, and were penitent, particularly Major Lowick who expressed great Sorrow for being concerned in such a Fact. Mr. Cranburn though he owned all the design, yet he thought it was his Duty to assist King James, and said much more to that purpose.

You may please to remember, that in October last, when His Majesty came from Flanders, three Persons were taken in Southwark and committed to Prison, where they are still; they being accused of a design to shoot the King as he came over London-Bridge, but they being not tried, I shall say no more on this Subject, tho' 'tis too true that the Enemies of the King and Government have taken all occasions to take him off, and soment a Rebellion, encourage a Foreign Invasion, &c. but hitherto they have been Detected, and as you have already seen several of them have suffered.

Certainly the French King and the late King James are degenerated from the race of Kings and Princes, who always abhorred Assassination, and therefore I will quote some Instances in the time of the Gun-powder Plot here in England, some of those Hellish crew concerned therein escaped into Spain, where they behaved themselves worse than Infidels, by proposing to subject their Native Country to the Spanish Yoke, and as an Expedient to effect it, they offered to take off King James the first the then King of England, which Phillip King of Spain rejected, expressing pressing his Abhorrence of such a design. This had such an influence over King James, that he immediately concluded a Peace with Spain. It was also amongst the Romans, deemed abominable to Assassinate a private Man, much more a great King. King Charles would not agree to permit Oliver Cromwell to be Assassinated, tho he was an Ufurper; the truth of it is, Assassination was at all times contrived by the Jesuites and Priests, who never stick at any thing to remove such Obstacles as are in their way, and indeed it has been so in all times, as most Historys do agree, and I cannot forbear to note that King John being thought no favourer of the high flown Roman Clergy in time of Popery, was in revenge at last poisoned by a Monk, and they do take all occasions to promote Interest, though it be to the utter ruin of all Christendom besides; and in a word, we may say as much of our Non-jurant Ministers, who would sacrifice Kingdoms to gratifie their own Ambition. What I have said here is beyond Contradiction, therefore I shall in this place insert a remarkable passage.

Amongst the many Providences that have attended His Sacred Majesty, which seems to point and design him a Darling of Heaven. I shall insert one Passage in the Prophet Daniel, which to the curious will be extremely worth Observation, which seems peculiarly prophetick to King William.

Daniel 12th. vers. 11th. and 12th. And from that time that the daily Sacrifice shall be taken away, and the Abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a Thousand Two Hundred and Ninety Days. Blessed is he that waiteth and cometh to the Thousand Three Hundred and Three and Thirty days.

'Tis remarkable that from April the 23d. 1685. the day of King James his Coronation, to the 8th. of November, 1688. when King William landed at Torbay, is exactly 1290 days, and from his landing to his coming to St. James is just 45 days, which added to the former number, makes completely the last number, viz. 1335. even to one day.

Now if without Superstition, we may suppose so remote an Oracle in so distant an Age of the word may look as far as this latter Age; it appears very strange, especially, in so vast a number of days, and that upon a double reckoning it should be exactly adopt to our happy Revolution. If the Critical shall object our commencing our date from King James his Coronation and not his Accession to the Throne, to settle our account, we can only answer, That the beginning of his Reign, like that of Nero, seemed to smile upon us, besides the Coronation day, which Installs the King, the Anointed of God, may properly be reckoned the Consummation of Regal Power; that Royal Authority which enabled him to set up the Abomination mentioned in the Text.

Sir George Berkeley, the Lord Montgomery, Sir John Fenwick, Major Holmes, and others, mentioned in the Proclamations, are not yet taken, notwithstanding the vigilance of the Government to apprehend them. A Pardon is passed the Seals for Captain Porter, Mr. Pendergrast, Monsieur de la Rue and Mr. Harris, and his Majesty has been pleased to give Mr. Pendergrast, who was the first Discoverer, 3000 l. in money, and settled upon him 500 l. per Annum for ever; the others are to have Pensions, according to their Deserts.

Mr. Peter Cook was Arraigned on Monday the 4th. Instant, at the Old Bailey, for contriving, with Sir John Friend, to send Charnock into France, to sollicite the sending over foreign Forces to Invade the Realm of England, and subvert the Government, and for buying and procuring Arms, &c. He Pleaded, Not Guilty, his Tryal was ordered to commence on Saturday, the 9th. of May, but adjourned to the 13th.

Some of the Conspirators that were in Custody merely on Suspicion, are either Discharged, or Admitted to Bail, and I believe others will suddenly, if nothing appears against them, the Government being very moderate to them.

The Associations are almost gone thro all the Counties, Corporations and Societies of this Kingdom; they have likewise signed it in Scotland and Ireland, as have also our Officers and Merchants beyond Sea: Nay, even several Roman Catholics have signed it, and have declared their Abhorrence of the Assassination. Yet Lewis the 14th, though King William had given him an Account some time since of a Design to poison him, had neither the Honour nor Honesty to acquaint his Majesty with this horrid Design, but on the contrary, ordered publick Prayers in all the Churches of France for the Success of King James, and his Undertakings, and he notified the same to all the Foreign Courts which his Ministers had Access to, even to his Brother the Grand Turk, I mean, the Grand Seignior, who, on that occasion, had his Forces in motion in Sclavonia, thinking the Emperor's Court would have been in some confusion upon so great a Blow; and indeed it appears that the French King, if matters had succeeded, was to have come in Person to form the siege of Namur; but truly when he found the Plot had miscarried, he thought fit to stay at Versailles to be cherished by Madam Maintenon, where he soon received the News of the burning of his Magazine at Glover, which he had been amassing there for several months; this was a great mortification to him. Now, the French King labours to make the world believe, that he knew nothing of this Conspiracy, saying, Upon the Word of a King, and the Faith of a Man, he had not the least Knowledge of it, but this is no otherwise than his usual Rodomantade.

I cannot forbear to mention a Passage which happened at St. Galle in Switzerland, the Sunday before and after they had notice of the Discovery of the Conspiracy in England; a Bernardin Priest preached and took occasion, he being one of the Emissaries of France, to tell his Auditors that it behoved them to pray, for there was a Cake in the pan, which, if well baked, all the world should taste of it; but the Sunday following he preached on the same subject, and told them, That verily the Devil had stirred the fire too much under the pan, and had burnt the Cake which he mentioned, yet he exhorted them to pray. By this it is not doubted, but that this Oracle had notice of the Design, and thought fit to mention it in a disguise manner.

Now I think we may properly say, that the Government have discovered the whole Conspiracy, which we may attribute to Divine Providence, who has always protected His Majesty against all his Enemies Designs. Most people are of Opinion that King James was glad his Enterprize of Invasion was become Abusive, least he should have been obliged to hazard his Person, which he doth not love to expose, if we may believe what has been said of him, and particularly by General Morgan and Admiral Jourdan; the first said, that he took him Prisoner at Dunkirk, he being then Duke of Rork, and Morgan a General under Oliver; and when he was brought to him, he fell down of his Knees and cried, so that Morgan was ashamed that a King's Son and his Countryman should appear so faint hearted, and being willing to hide it, Morgan did not detain him, but gave him his Liberty. Jourdan said, that truly when he was Engaged with the Dutch at Sea, he was in such Consternation, tho' barracaded with Cables, so that nothing could hurt him; that he shifted from ship to ship every Moment, and sent Messages every instant to let Jourdan know what danger he was exposed to, and Jourdan has declared that his Cowardize was the occasion of losing two glorious Advantages over the Dutch at Sea. It may be properly added to his personal Valour, his precipitate Retreat from Salisbury, and the Boyne, as also out of the Kingdoms of England and Ireland, yet the Jacobites adore him, and mightily applaud him for a Heroe.

I shall say no more on this subject, but conclude with inserting the List of the Prisoners, which are as followeth, viz.

In the TOWER.

|                              |                                  |                              |                                    |
|------------------------------|----------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| E of Aylbury , | Mr. Bellasis , since Dis- | Bernard Homard , Esq. | Colland & Clifford , |
| Lord Brudenall ,      | charged.                         | Dr. Lake ,            |                                    |
| since Discharged.            | Lord Ross ,               | Mr. Buckley ,         |                                    |
|                              | Since my last these following.   |                              |                                    |
| Col. Griffin ,        | Col. Tempest ,            | Lord Forbes ,         | Sir Philip Constable        |
|                              |                                  |                              | Mr. Brown .                 |

In

(7)
IN NEWGATE.

E. of Castlemain, up on an Ouelary.
William Walbauck,
Tho. Bartram,
Robert Ferguson,
Nicholas Nolin,
Zachariah Sinko,
George Higgins,
John Bengarui,
Chri. Knightly,
Mr. Davis,
Lieut. Sherburn,
David Lotherpi,
Edward White,
William Nilsen,
John Girling,
Brill Higgins,
Thomas Higgins,
Harry Fitzpatrick,
Edmund Lee,
Ten. Horne, was committed for High Treason, in concealing and harbouring Major

Lowich in his House.
John Vial alias Pierre,
Forster Collingwood,
Thomas Combs,
William Boyce,
Peer Cook,
Christopher Davis,
Sir Roger La Strange,
Nicholas Wilson,
Candol Goodman,
Charles Edwards,
Capt. William Stom,
Thomas Trevor,
James Embanch,
— Hanger,
— Barnard,
Robert Cassels,
Sir John Knight,
Robert Melburn,
Robert Blackburn,
James Chambers.

Since my last, these have been brought into Newgate, on Account of the Plot.

Thomas Cappelock,
Owen Silver,
William Symons,
Gustav Koon, Ensign
William Berkenhead,
John Budgin,
John Rolph,
John Hare,
Shadrach Cook 7 Mini-
William Stas 5 firs.
William Collins,
Capt. Tho. Stubbs, Gustav Greed brought from Rochester, 27th.
of April.
Thom. Perkins,
Barret Davis, alias Danson and Isaac Bullock, all 3 brought from Leicester, 15th April.
Mr. Donolan,
Mr. Branfield.

Executed out of NEWGATE.

Robert Charnock, Edward King,
The Key, alias Crabbe, Sir Will. Perkins,
Sir John Friend,
Ambrose Rookwood,
Major Lowich,
Charles Cranburn.

In the GATE-HOUSE.

Dr. Monro,
Dr. Mackintosh,
Captain Tomlinson,
Mr. Lewis, Gentleman of the Horse to the E. of Newcastle,
Captain Binn,
Captain Billingham,
Mr. Poynter,
Colonel Mordaunt,
Esquire Elliot,
Esquire Beger,
Mr. Graham,
Esquire Schep,
Captain Adams,
Mr. Wray,
Captain Brian,
Mr. Luby,
Mr. Pugh,
Captain Blair,
Captain Evans,
Mr. Meyer,
Mr. Cadron,
De. Paire,
Captain Ribbardsen,
Mr. Birkenhead,
Mr. Dale Close,
Mr. Bateman,
J. Redman, a Printer,
Capt. Will. Courtney,
Ensign Tooley,
Capt. Hen. Courtney,
Capt. James Courtney,
Paul Robinson,
Mr. Memoransy Spie-
r,
Captain Ridly,
Mr. Matthews, a Priest.
Another Mr. Matthews, a suspected Priest.
Mr. Ramsey,

Since my last these following, viz.

Mr. Fleckwood
Mr. Parry
Mr. Cornwallis
Captain Ryans
Mr. Thapps
Mr. Serjeant
Mr. Hickford
Mr. Peris
Mr. Gray
Mr. Stawley
Mr. Gerrard
Mr. Plowden
Mr. Henry Clapmy
Mr. Wilson, a Minister.

In the FLEET

The Hon. Coll. Campbell,
Treas. Genl. Sir Richard Mills,
Discharged Sir Richard Mills,
The Honourable Mr. Coll. Graham, Privy

Pinch to the late K. Captain Richardson,
Captain Murray,
Colonel Duggan
Captain K. ...

Since my last race I've won

Sir Henry James      Mr. Charles Fairclough
Nobles House      Mr. B. ...

|               |            |
|---------------|------------|
| Mr. Baker     | Mr. Ayers  |
| Mr. Mansfield | Mr. Rogers |

In the KING'S-BENCH

Benedict Hall, Esq.      John W. Hall, Esq.

Counselor: _____

of Council removed from Nigate on the 2nd March.

Dr. John B. ...

Case Study

THE MARSHALS

512. R. 13 - L. 12 - 1876.

Dealing With Us

Conclusions

Confined to their own flows, the Earls of Lincoln and Warrington

In the Custody of MESSENGERS

[illegible]

Sold by J. W. Moore, near Stationers' Hall, 1696.